

Re: Bug? in SUSE 9.2 console or init 3 windows button

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/alt.os.linux.suse/2005-07/2528.html>

From: Michel Catudal (mcatudal_at_comcast.net)

Date: 07/26/05

Date: Mon, 25 Jul 2005 22:00:10 -0500

danmcgrath13 wrote:

> I got in a screen that I couldn't get out of when I did init 3 on SUSE > 9.2 fully patched. This happened after the 3rd or so time pressing the > "windows" button. Wondering if this is a bug or a way to get back out > of this screen. Was garbled sys info and system state. No key I > pressed would get me out of the screen. The only way I found to > rectify the situation was to ssh root from another machine and do init > 5. I'm hoping someone has an answer to this or can get it to the > proper ppl to fix the bug. I'm wondering if I just didn't know the key > to press but not user friendly netherless. Thanks for any help or > input on the subject.
>
>
> Dan McGrath

init 3 keeps you from being stuck in an annoying graphic boot.
You need to type startx then to load the gui.

The bug is for the install to default to graphic boot.

--

Tired of Microsoft's rebootive multitasking?
then it's time to upgrade to Linux.
<http://home.comcast.net/~mcatudal>
We are the Cybernetic Entomology Experts