

Re: linux versions of messenger/icq?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/alt.os.linux/2003-09/1353.html>

---

From: osmoma (osmoma\_at\_online.no)

Date: 09/16/03

Date: Tue, 16 Sep 2003 13:11:05 +0200

J Peterman wrote:

> are there linux versions of messenger and/or icq?

>

>

Yes, Linux has variety of IM, ICQ and IRC clients.

gaim IM : <http://gaim.sourceforge.net/>

kmess IM: <http://kmess.sourceforge.net> (MSN messenger)

LICQ : <http://www.licq.org/>

xchat irc: <http://xchat.org>

chatzilla: <http://www.mozilla.org/projects/rt-messaging/chatzilla/>

This text is from GAIM home page:

"Gaim is a multi-protocol instant messaging client for Linux, BSD, MacOS X, and Windows. It is compatible with AIM (Oscar and TOC protocols), ICQ, MSN Messenger, Yahoo, IRC, Jabber, Gadu-Gadu, and Zephyr networks."

See also: <http://www.futuredesktop.org>

^F search for "chat" word.

Cheers,

os moma