

Re: Oh, I need help at loading kernel modules...

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/alt.os.linux/2003-11/0097.html>

From: Billy Watt (newssпам_at_cjwatt.plus.net)

Date: 11/02/03

Date: Sun, 2 Nov 2003 14:05:52 -0000

In news:wG7pb.285$gj5.54@reader1.news.jippii.net,
AnXa <antti.aspinen@phnet.fi> rambled:
> Okey, I Want to install SuSE Linux to my second computer.
> I am sure that all you know that SuSE dosen't provide Cd-Images (isos) > on their home site to i386 machines.
>
> So it is about network install. Only thing I need to know is that how > do I use D-Link DFE-530TX at in the SuSE install?
> I need to load it in to kernel, but how does I do it? and what I need > to input to module parametres?
> Could some one please explain what are those parametres ?
>

<ftp://ftp.suse.com/pub/suse/i386/current/README.FTP>

Is this what you need to know ?

--

Billy

"Pinky, are you pondering what I'm pondering?"

(Pinky) Whoof, oh, I'd have to say the odds of that are terribly slim Brain. (Brain) True.

(Pinky) I mean, really, when have I ever been pondering what you've been pondering? (Brain) To my knowledge, never.

(Pinky) Exactly. So, what are the chances that this time, I'm pondering what you're pondering? (Brain) Next to nil.

(Pinky) Well, that's exactly what I'm thinking, too.

(Brain) Therefore, you are pondering what I'm pondering.

(Pinky) Poit, I guess I am!