

Re: Email Checker in System Tray?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/alt.os.linux/2004-01/1326.html>

---

From: Etno (e\_at\_u.com)

Date: 01/16/04

Date: Fri, 16 Jan 2004 17:25:46 GMT

Lenard wrote:

> On Fri, 16 Jan 2004 05:06:28 +0000, Etno typed:

>

>

>> Hey folks,

>>

>> I'm looking for an app that can check your pop email accounts and notify >> you when you have messages. I want one that sits in your system tray.

>

>

> It does not sit in your tray, but does this a a whole lot more;

>

> <http://web.wt.net/~billw/gkrellm/gkrellm.html>

>

>

I considered using that but decided against it cause I wasn't sure how it notified you of new mail. If worse comes to worse I will give it a go. On my pc, to get all the monitors working right, I had to load a bunch of modules first. I was never able to get the monitors to load on startup of the OS despit trying everything that I read on the net about how to do it.

THanks for the suggestion.