

Keyboard double-typing on a Toshiba laptop...

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.os.linux.x/2003-09/0114.html>

From: Simon H. (sheath_at_mail.com)

Date: 09/10/03

Date: 9 Sep 2003 21:44:59 -0700

Hey all. I recently got a Toshiba Satellite laptop and installed Slackware Linux 8.1 on it. Everything works fine but the sound, which I am currently working on, and a very irritating glitch in X. When typing quickly, every 4-5 characters one of them gets doubled, typed twice. A little thing, yeah, but bloody annoying when your typing speed suddenly has to halve. I've tried resetting the character repeat rate to no useful effect, and this doesn't happen when in plain console mode, and happens no matter what WM I'm using, so it's rather puzzling. I've never run across this before and was wondering if anyone out there has any idea what's going on.

Thanks a million,
Simon