

Re: The disappointment with Linux and GNU based OSs packaging systems

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.os.linux/2004-04/0367.html>

From: Victor Nazarov (vviruss_at_mail.ru)

Date: 04/12/04

Date: Mon, 12 Apr 2004 20:31:49 +0400

Sybren Stuvcl wrote:

- > If you need more characters than fit in a single codepage, use Unicode.
- > That's what it's for. I'm using Unicode on all my computers, websites,
- > emails, etc. and it works like a charm.
- > I don't know about the UTF8 support of RedHat and Debian. I'm using
- > Gentoo, and I can tell you the UTF8 support is quite good.

Do you frequently use some other characters rather than ascii subset of utf8? Maybe you are right, but i need a great update of my pretty woody to support it :-).

- > Which is another reason I'm so happy about Gentoo. Looks like it's a
- > distribution for you too ;-)
- >

Do you think it's impossible to provide good binary packaging system?

vir