

Re: RH9 / USB Storage

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/linux.redhat.misc/2003-10/0697.html>

From: Dean Browning (dcbrowning_at_charter.net)

Date: 10/31/03

Date: Thu, 30 Oct 2003 20:50:53 -0600

Wow... ok, I have no clue on how to do this. But, thank you for your response

Dean

"dan" <dansawyer@earthlink.net> wrote in message
news:MuidndWsNa9SPTyiRVn-sg@comcast.com...

> Dean,

>

> I have just recompiled a kernel to support some local power > options so I just went though the USB config. There are > options in the config for USB devices. You may have to > recompile the kernel to support a USB disk. (load the kernel

> source RPM and dry run 'make xconfig' and look at the USB > parms.) This is now pretty straight forward and with the

> ./linux/Makefile extraversion parm very safe.

>

> Let me know if you need more.

>

> Dan

>

> Dean Browning wrote:

>> Is there a way to install RH9 to a USB Ext Hard Drive? I saw a nousbstorage >> command for the boot...

>>

>> I am installing it on a laptop that has winXP on and did not want to install >> rh9 to it. I have this 20gb hd just sitting here.

>>

>> Dean

>>

>>

>>

>