I have done searches and found some answers but not all so just wondering is this normal or how to change.

1st) After opening Mozilla when I go to open up a second window of Mozilla from the task bar Mozilla will load but it will not load any webpage. All it will load is browser and that is it and there is no address in the address bar. Also this keeps up even after I have closed all my windows and try to reopen one again the page will load nothing.

2nd) I am just not a Mozilla (netscape?) fan for looks so what are some other web browsers that I can use?

3rd) How do I check what hardware I have installed and if I do not see it how do I install drivers? I do see some of my hardware but I have a serial card installed but I do not see it on the list. I am looking in hardware browser.

4th) This is my last I think and it has to do with passwords. Is there a way so I do not have to log in during bootup and is there a way to take all passwords protections off the system. I am the only user of this pc and have to only log in.

Thanks so much for any help you can give.

Neal
