

Re: Install FC2 from NTFS?

Source: <http://linux.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/linux.redhat/2004-07/0664.html>

---

From: Nils O. Selåsdal (NOS_at_Utel.no)

Date: 07/28/04

Date: Wed, 28 Jul 2004 22:51:55 +0200

On Wed, 28 Jul 2004 17:43:02 +0000, Keith Gable wrote:

> Abracadabra wrote:

>> Hi all,

>>

>> I'm compiling Visual Boy Advance 1.7.2 in my Red Hat 9. And I found from the >> change log that it supports Linux GUI now. So I

>> #!/configure --enable-gtk

>> and I found that there's some libs to be downloaded. And I downloaded all >> the libs vba and it's dependencies need, and finally I found I can't install >> them, because there's something wrong with the source code of libbonobmm.

>> And then I decided to install Fedora Core 2, but my hard drive partition >> layout is:

>> NTFS(main)+NTFS(ext, contains 4 NTFS)+EXT3(main)+SWAP(main).

>> I plan to download ISO of FC2 to my NTFS partitions. Is that possible to >> install from a NTFS hard drive?(I found from red hat site that RH9 can't be >> installed from partitions except ext2,ext3 and fat)

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

>>

> You should be able to mount the ISOs from the NTFS drive...

No, as FC2 does not support NTFS out of the box, or in the installer.